

Advent Expands its Custodian Reach with ByAllAccounts Partnership.

Woburn, Massachusetts – April 7th 2008 – ByAllAccounts, the leading provider of reconciliation ready data in the market, today announced that it is working with Advent Software, Inc. (NASDAQ: ADVS) to help deliver a data aggregation solution to Advent clients for held away assets.

Investors today hold not just IRA's, 401k's, 403b's, and mutual funds, but also separate accounts, exchange-traded funds, individual stocks, and variable annuities. During a downturn in the economy investors' work with those they trust to help guide their holdings through the adversity. A recession can mean expanded business for the savvy and trusted investment advisor that can deliver advice on the complete picture. These clients can be higher net worth accounts, and while attractive to manage, they are more costly to administer. The collaboration between ByAllAccounts and Advent means that data for all accounts can be automatically, efficiently, and accurately obtained every day in a cost effective manner. Now, investment professionals can make meaningful comparisons between investments or analyze a portfolio of multiple investment vehicles. Together Advent and ByAllAccounts provide data and access to over 3,000 Custodians.

"Advent is committed to partnering with best-in-class companies in order to provide greater value to our customers," said George McLaughlin, Director of Alliances at Advent. "ByAllAccounts offers Advent clients a valuable tool for expanding their wealth management practices.

"We are delighted to be partners with Advent," said James Carney, Chief Executive Officer, ByAllAccounts. "ByAllAccounts' solution in conjunction with Advent Custodial Data provides Advent clients with unparalleled access to reconciliation-ready custodial data.
